GOSPEL REFLECTION

Alfred Nobel, a Swedish industrialist, was rich and famous. Amongst other things, he had invented dynamite. But as he neared the end of his life, he was extremely unhappy. He had never married and all his life he had been plagued by ill-health. As a result, he had a very pessimistic view of life. Then one morning, he read his own obituary in a newspaper. It had been a mistake by a journalist. He was very disturbed by what he read. What hurt him most was the false image people had of him. According to the obituary, the world would remember him as the "dynamite king". There was no mention of his desire to unite people and to better the quality of human life. It came as a great shock to him to discover that everything that was essential about his personality, everything that made him as a person – the real Alfred Nobel – was hidden from other people. The obituary described a different person from the one he knew himself to be. He felt completely misunderstood - he wasn't like the person the obituary described. He made a decision to take immediate action to let the world know what his real ideals and aims were. The first thing to do was to let the world know that he was actually still alive!

Nobel left most of his vast fortune in trust for the betterment of the world. He set up five prizes that would be awarded to men and women who had made outstanding contributions to the world in the areas of physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and peace. He wanted to be remembered, not as someone who had invented something that could destroy the world, but as a man who had the good of the whole of humanity at heart.

What happened to Alfred Nobel shows us how wrong people can be in their judgment of others. It happened to Jesus himself. Today's Gospel shows us what strange ideas people had of him. Some thought he was John the Baptist, who had already died. Others thought he was one of the ancient prophets who had come back to life. As Peter says in the Gospel, Jesus was and is the Messiah. But he was not to be a glorious ruling Messiah as the people expected, he was to be a suffering messiah. He wouldn't rule, he would serve. Jesus wasn't interested in being the Messiah of people's hopes and dreams. He knew he had a God-given destiny to fulfill, and he would not be deflected from it.

We are in trouble if our main concern in life is to project a good image of ourselves and to try to live up to people's expectations. The only thing we are called to be is - to be true to ourselves. Otherwise we can't be fully alive and happy. But we should also not be content until we are the best we can be. So, whatever our path in life, what really matters is that we should be ourselves before God, and before others, because it is God himself who has made us who we are today.

Psalm Response For you my soul is thirsting, O God, my God.

The sheep that belong to me listen to my voice, says the Lord, I know them and they follow me.

MAJOR FLOODS IN LOURDES

This week, a combination of melting snow and heavy rain completely flooded the Shrine at Lourdes. The water reached the roof of the Grotto, the underground basilica is now a 15 metre high lake, the Rosary Square was flooded and the Church of St Bernadette is badly damaged. Streets in the town of Lourdes became rivers and many pilgrims had to be evacuated from hotels. It is probably the biggest disaster in the history of Lourdes. You can find out more information at the website: http://fr.lourdes-france.org

HOSPITAL PATIENTS

Please note: if you are taken into hospital and would like to see a priest or receive communion, you or a relative need to inform the hospital staff. They will then arrange for the Hospital Chaplain to visit you. If you don't let the hospital staff know that you want to see the Chaplain or receive communion, then it is likely that the Chaplain will not know that you are in hospital.
